

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

I think it was a huge mistake to allow corporations to own large blocks of stations without some rules governing them to enforce fairness and balance in their broadcast content. Or are the rules there and just not being enforced?

We have a situation of money buying influence in the elections. First the FOX-TV channels, and now Sinclair Broadcasting, are moving us towards an Orwellian-environment of whoever is biggest and richest 'wins' the airwaves. Please, FCC, control them!

Thank you.
